DAILY AFFIRMATIONS FOR FINANCIAL ABUNDANCE

I am just as worthy, deserving, and capable of creating financial abundance in my life as any other person on earth.

The amount of money I earn will always be in proportion to the amount of value I create for others. More value created = more money earned.

Zig Ziglar summed it up perfectly when he said:

“You can have everything you want in life if you help enough other people get what they want.”

So, I will consistently ask the question, “How can I add more value for others?” and focus on adding as much value as I possibly can.

However, I will not add value haphazardly, but with intention. To improve my financial knowledge and capabilities, I will read books by those who have already achieved the financial success and freedom that I aspire to (recommendations on the next page), so that I can shorten my learning curve and model what’s already been proven to work.

And I will be patient, knowing that if I learn how to earn more money and put what I learn into practice, my success is inevitable. I will not make excuses, and I will not procrastinate. I will recite these affirmations each day, and take action to create the financial abundance that I deserve.
